Explanation about Startup Eco System:

The culture within a startup ecosystem can also play a crucial role. Factors such as risk tolerance, a willingness to experiment, and an entrepreneurial mindset can contribute to the vibrancy of the ecosystem.

Successful startup ecosystems often have a dynamic interplay among these elements, creating an environment where innovation and entrepreneurship can thrive. Examples of prominent startup ecosystems include Silicon Valley in the United States, Silicon Alley in New York, and the startup scenes in cities like London, Berlin, and Bangalore. Each of these ecosystems has its unique characteristics and strengths, but they all share the goal of fostering innovation and supporting the growth of new businesses.

Program Wind-up

In conclusion, ecosystems are intricate and interconnected systems that encompass the living organisms, their physical environment, and the relationships between them. They play a pivotal role in maintaining biodiversity, supporting human well-being, and sustaining the health of the planet. Ecosystems provide numerous services, such as clean air and water, food production, climate regulation, and cultural and recreational opportunities. However, they face various threats, including habitat destruction, pollution, and climate change, which can disrupt their functioning and endanger their stability. Protecting and conserving ecosystems are essential for the continued provision of these invaluable benefits and the long-term

Presentation By Resource person

Program Out Comes:

At the end of the Seminar the participants will have a clear knowledge on

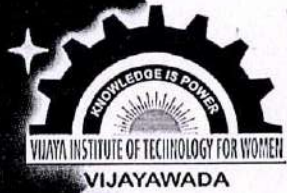

1. To know how to Apply For Trademarks, Patents, and Copyrights
2. To some point, this explains why creativity makes such rapid evolutionary leaps. Your rivals would never be able to catch up to you if you have endless innovation loops.
3. There are also several instances where rivals learn about an invention from leaks and request for a patent citing it as their own. You'll have to prove that you're the rightful owner as a consequence of it now.
4. Maintain patent and trademark security and enforce your rights by reporting violations and charging violators where the business situation requires it.
5. To Create Awareness Among Your Employees Regarding Intellectual Property Security.
6. Make Sure the IP is Owned in a Way that Allows Further Development.
